EAST INDIAN IDOLS.

Some That Are Guarded and Saluted by British Troops.

In India a British guard of honor presents arms to a stone tiger every day. The tiger is regarded by the natives as a god who drives away all danger and calamity, and once some soldiers, in a spirit of mischief, overthrew the image from its resting place and sent it rolling into the valley below.

So shocked and scandalized were the natives that a revolt seemed imminent, and Lord Combermere quelled the outraged natives by restoring the image to its pedestal and ordering the regiment to salute it in full view of all. Since that time a British troop has kept watch over the tiger idol day by day.

Another Indian idol which is watched over by the British is the god whose name is Klak Klak, equivalent to "Lord of Lords," which is supposed to be asleep for 6,000 years and whose awakening will be the end of all things.

Hence the natives of the city of Pegu, in Burma, are terribly afraid that some one will arouse the god, so the British government, to avert trouble, stationed a sentry there to prevent this catastrophe.

Once a year a strange custom is observed in Cairo. A piece of carpet on which, according to tradition, Mahomet once sat and which is the most famous sacred relic of Islam, is carried through the streets, and the khedive and his troops all receive it in review order and salute it as they pass.

The relic is guarded most carefully at ordinary times, and the officer in charge of it each morning must salute it with his sword raised, while the bugler blows three blasts before it. —Exchange.

How a Coal Fire Protects Itself.

A curious way in which a fire in the heart of a coal pile keeps itself from being put out is noted in a mining journal. Such fires often start in the interior of large piles of coal owing to heat developed by slow oxidation, which is prevented by the size of the pile from escaping into the air. Such fires are difficult to put out owing to the fact that the burning mass turns the coal around it into coke, which is nearly impervious to water. The pile may thus be thoroughly drenched without putting out the fire, which it never really reaches. The only way to deal with the situation is to drive into the pile a sharpened iron pipe long enough to reach the burning coal and then to couple a hose to the upper end and turn on the water.

A Dreadful Mistake.

Glype (in railway carriage)—This is a splendid book, a masterpiece. I recommend you to buy it. Glype—I wonder how it is selling. Glype—It is selling in thousands. Can't publish it fast enough. I'm the publisher, so I ought to know. Glype—I'm so glad to hear you say that, because I am the author. Glype (suddenly collapsed)—Well—er—that is, it may sell fast. But there are very serious risks. Fall Fashions in Women's Hats.

The October Woman's Home Companion devotes 17 pages to fall and winter fashions. On the subject of fall fashions in millinery Grace Margaret Gould, the fashion editor, says in part:

"Velvet, fur, feathers—these three proclaim the fashions in millinery for fall and winter. There is scarcely a hat for the autumn that does not show the introduction of velvet, if it is not entirely made of that material; and as for the trimming, it is bound to be of feathers, one kind or another, and often fur too is introduced.

"Large and small, high and low, are the new hats for the autumn. No one definite shape is a necessity, but rather to suit the individuality of the wearer is the mission of the hat this season. Well down on the head it must be placed, with a slight dip to the right side, to be correct. It is worn again this year without even the suggestion of a hair-dresser."

Everybody Has Two Countries—His Own and France.

In the October Woman's Home Companion Laura Spencer Porter begins a series of interpretations of various countries. Her first article is entitled, "The Heart of France." Following is an extract from what she writes:

"France stands among modern nations much as Greece stood among the nations of the ancient world, the darling of all the rest. Naturally more gifted, a favorite child, there is something particular and essential which marks her from early days—a grace, a gift, a dowry, be it of taste, of sympathy, of beauty; something which sets her apart from the rest.

"And whichever of her traits we study we shall find to be touched with this particularity: some fine flower of enthusiasm blooms in all she does.

"Again and again we see this enthusiasm in her history, in her art—she loves intensely, and delights in what is hers."

Saturday, Sept. 18, the I. O. O. L. M. U. will have a food sale of home-made food, beans, spaghetti, etc., at the store of late Oscar Borgh, North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bosworth of Perry street went this morning to Berlin, where they will make a short visit at the home of Mr. Bosworth's brother, Gardner Bosworth.

Mrs. Addie Corliss, a former resident of this city and vicinity, who has been residing in Brooklyn, N. Y., for the past two years, arrived in the city last night and will make a visit of several months in this city and vicinity. While in the city she is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Addie Bradley of 4 Camp street.

The proprietors of the Granite City General store on Granite street are making extensive arrangements in their quarters for a bakery department to be installed. Carpenters have been at work for the past few days and the basement is being turned into a convenient place for cooking. An oven of a modern type has been installed for baking bread and pastry. The proprietors announce that within a short time the department will be completed and the concern will then do its own baking as well as selling at wholesale.

Nearly 100 young Italians from this city and Montpelier went last evening to Dewey park, where they enjoyed their regular monthly social time. Dancing to the music of Carroll's orchestra took up most of their time up until midnight, but at intermission dainty refreshments of sandwiches, cake, punch, wafers and ice cream were served by the committee. To this committee much credit is due for the attractive decorations put about the pavilion during the afternoon. The committee, headed by King Maggiani was composed of the following: D. Bizzozero, Joseph Merlo, Miss Lena Buzzi of Barre, and Miss Selma Bianchi of Montpelier. Special cars going each way took the dancers home. At a business meeting before the close, John Casabella was made permanent president and Miss Sophia Rossi was made permanent secretary and treasurer. A name is to be given to the club at the next monthly meeting.

Funeral services for Ira J. Stemm, a former resident of Barre, whose sudden death occurred in Redlands, Cal., last week, will be held at A. W. Badger & Co.'s mortuary chapel in the Morse block Friday afternoon, Rev. J. B. Reardon, pastor of the Universalist church, officiating. Interment will be in Elmwood cemetery beside the remains of Mrs. Stemm and little child, who died nearly 15 years ago. The remains arrived in Barre over the Central Vermont railroad at 9:47 o'clock. Advice received from Redlands by letter indicates that Mr. Stemm died in the hallway within 10 feet from the room where he was staying. Death came in the night and the remains were not discovered until several hours afterward. He had been in Redlands about a month. Mr. Stemm was born March 30, 1868, and so as can be learned his only near relative is a brother, Fred Stemm, who lives in the West. Granite lodge, No. 35, F. and A. M., to which the deceased belonged, will have charge of the funeral services at Elmwood. Mr. Stemm was also a member of the granite cutters' union.

New wash goods at Abbott's. Coolest place in town—Russell's. New styles in R. & G. corsets at Abbott's.

Trunks, bags and suit cases from the McWhorter Co.

Remember, Saturday only all goods reduced at Vaughan's.

Mrs. John Broderick of North Main street has returned to the city after spending several days with relatives in Boston and vicinity.

Saturday, Sept. 18, the I. O. O. L. M. U. will have a food sale of home-made food, beans, spaghetti, etc., at the store of late Oscar Borgh, North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hayes returned to Groveton, N. H., yesterday, after passing several days in the city as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hodgdon of Highland avenue.

Miss Ethel Morgan wishes to correct the statement in yesterday's Times that she gave an exhibition of modern dancing with Edward Conway at the state fair yesterday.

D. E. Gale of the Carlisle & Gale Co. of Boston has arrived in the city with the dust collectors that are to be installed on the surface cutting machines in the stoneshed. Mr. Gale has already started the work of putting the collectors on the machines and several of the larger companies have them installed.

Rev. W. A. Kinzie, who for several years was pastor of the Baptist church in this city and who is pleasantly remembered by many people here, has resigned as pastor of the Essex Street Baptist church in Lynn, Mass., to become manager of the Boston branch of the American Baptist Publication society. Rev. Mr. Kinzie is temporarily in Philadelphia to meet the executive committee of the society. He will maintain his residence in Lynn, where he has been for eight years.

A number of young women of the city joined last evening in a delightful dinner party given at Hotel Barre in honor of Miss Marguerite G. Stoughton of French street, whose marriage to Geoffrey Rollison of Palmerton, Pa., is to take place in the near future. After the dinner hour there was a bridge party. Among those who participated were: Mrs. Douglas M. Barclay, Mrs. M. K. Mackay, Misses Evelyn and Mildred Phelps, Misses Ethel and Jennie Ewen, Miss Freda C. Hooker and Miss Stoughton.

Twenty-one people who purchased tickets for the special train to the state fair this morning had their choice of selecting seats from seven passenger coaches that made up the train leaving Barre at 6:30 o'clock. Patrons of yesterday's excursion train, who returned to the city at 9:30 o'clock last night, were more numerous, but the number of tickets in neither instance was as great as in former years. Railroad officials probably conclude that the motor is rapid superseding the locomotive as a factor in transporting people to the big going at White River Junction. If anything, more cars left Barre for the fairground this morning, although a number of people en route for the Junction who passed through Barre did not appear to equal yesterday's record.

To be working over stone at the same bunker for 18 years and to have his tool kit located in the same corner of the shop for a similar period is the unique record of Albert A. Creamer, who completed a long term of service in the employ of W. M. Miller at his granite plant on Depot square yesterday. Other men who have been working for Mr. Miller are seeking employment elsewhere as the result of the latter's decision to dispose of his manufacturing interests, but Mr. Creamer's record is believed to be without parallel among the men who started in when the plant was operated by Melcher & Hadley. Mr. Creamer has had but few vacations in the nearly 20 years of his service and believing that he is about due for a respite from his labors, he left this morning for his hunting camp on Pigeon pond, there to remain for a stay of 10 days. He was accompanied by his son, Allan Creamer.

Chief Gladding of the fire department and a number of men connected with the call and regular departments returned last night from Burlington, where they participated in the field day at the Centennial field. First-class runners participated in several fine dashes, and in speaking of the 220-yard run, a morning contemporary, in mentioning the victory of Quimet, a Burlington boy, says: "Phillips, the Barre man, who raced Quimet in the run of 220 yards, is one of the fastest men that ever spiked the turf in this part of the country, and although he admits that he is going back, he gave the local man a good race." The time was 22 1/2, and Quimet was only four yards ahead of Phillips. In the 100-yard dash for amateurs, Colombo of Barre was first, making the distance in 11 seconds flat. Parichelli of this city was second and H. McDonald of Barre was third, the Barre runners having everything their own way. In the 100-yard dash for professionals, between Quimet and Gallagher, who as appeared here as a pitcher for local baseball teams, the former came home ahead, making the distance in 10 seconds.

Page L. Colby died about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening at his home at 77 Berlin street, after a short illness with hardening of the arteries. The deceased was born in Colbyville, a village in Waterbury, Nov. 30, 1842, and lived most of his life in that town, where he had been employed in a mill. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Colby. He was married several years ago to Miss Sarah Morrissette, who, with four daughters, survive him. The daughters are Mrs. Edward Aitken of Waterbury, Mrs. V. I. Knapp and Mrs. W. R. The condition of Herbert, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanborn, who suffered effects of the heat Wednesday morning and ran into a tree, receiving a bad cut over one ear and bruises on his face, is improved to-day. The youth had been playing at football with other children at the Union school and had been running a good deal when he seemed to become dazed and ran into the tree. He was carried home unconscious, and after two hours he recovered so that he spoke, after which he went to sleep, but appeared to be gaining during the rest of the day, and is doing nicely to-day.

The city auto truck used in the street department to cart gravel, got away from a machinist of the Capital Garage company about 4:30 Wednesday afternoon, resulting in its coming down the steep East street hill at a fast clip. The driver tried to stop when he reached the foot of the hill and the truck slewed on the wet street and went, head on, into the side of the Gleason block, driving the brick in for some four feet and about a foot wide. The truck did not appear to have been damaged. It was in charge of H. W. Gallison, who was allowing the mechanic to run it because it was working badly. Neither of the men was injured.

Charles Buswell left this morning for New York. He will take the boat ride down the Hudson river.

Miss Grace Brooke, who is acting as pastor of the Baptist church in Groton until the appointment of a pastor, was in the city this morning on her way to her home in Burlington.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Parmenter visited to-day in Morrisville. Jesse Spruce, the man who was injured by being covered with sand while working on the underpass at Middlesex, has resumed work. He is still lame from his experience, but is gaining.

Mrs. Lawrence Wright and her mother, Mrs. Marjorie, are visiting relatives in Waterbury.

Contractor Cushman expects to commence work on the Rialto bridge the first of next week.

The Italian club of Barre, gave a dance at Dewey park Wednesday evening, which was attended by about 45 couples. It was one of the series the club has been giving during the summer months.

A deed of the sale of J. D. Clogston's homestead on Main street to Rose Glenzie, his housekeeper, has been filed in the city clerk's office.
